Elsinore and Temecula Clash on Diamond

By Johnny C. Neblett

With the aid of breeze the Elsinore team blew down to Murrieta Springs last Sunday to the fast team from Temecula, the local fans, and suffragettes bringing up the rear.

Bentley was on the mound for Elsinore while Lou Burnham received his offerings. Brownie, the free air agent, camped at first, but had a blow out in the leg and was relieved by Keck in the fifth inning. J. C. McIntyre played (I said played) second base, and S. Root stopped the grounders and a few local butterflies at short. S. Mayer had the third relay. T. Lillie covered a couple of acres out in left field and E. Root tamed the wild flowers in the right field. Everett lost his direction once during the conclave and threw the ball south when he should have thrown north. Fees, McSwain Company filled in the wedge. Elsinore did not win the game, but sure made the Temecula redskins work.

April 30, 1920

Base Ball Stuff

By Johnny C. Neblett

Eddie Maier and Johnny Powers sure overlooked some fast stuff when they passed up the ball playing demons raised in this district. Anyone who didn't get their money's worth at last Sunday's game are not apt to get full value for their change on any baseball diamond. The local Hemen met the third section of the Temecula Rainbow Division, who came up prepared to run up a big score against the Legionnaires. The He-men took the trenches with Lillie on left flank, Ellis center and McSwain on right. In the second line Mayer held down third and the Root squad dug themselves in at short and second Brownie worked on first; his wife was there to cheer his every play. Sierra Bentley worked the machine gun in the box while Lou Burnham ate the shrapnel that came there from. Captain McIntyre called the zero hour in the sixth inning and over the top the Elsinore boys went and stayed there to the finish. The Stewards reported a collection of about twenty-four bucks. They should get jobs with some of the Elsinore churches. Final score, Elsinore 3, Temecula 2. Next Sunday the Elsinore bunch play Beaumont at Beaumont.

Temecula Bank Offers Safety

Institution has installed modern appliances rendering vault burglar proof- Conditions are good in that section - Bank enjoying splendid business

Edward Greenfield, cashier of the First National Bank of Temecula recently conducted a representative of the PRESS through the banking rooms and vaults of that strong and growing institution. Particular attention was directed to a new device installed in the vault entrance, known as "Yeggman's Surprise," rendering the burglarizing of the vaults impossible.

Greenfield stated that conditions in the Temecula section are better than in any other part of the state. There has been no damage by frost and the wheat and barely are holding up and filling out splendidly; and old residents say that this is going to be the most prosperous year agriculturally of any for thirty years.

"Several ranchers," said the banker, "are meeting the scarcity of labor by buying harvesters, which will do the work of several men, and they will undoubtedly get through the season unhampered by reason of insufficient farm help."

Elsewhere in this issue appears the statement of condition of the First National Bank of Temecula as made to the Controller at the close of business on May 4th. It shows the bank in sound condition, inspiring the confidence of all depositors.

The bank is considering the installation of additional safe deposit boxes, there now being only one unrented box. With the additional protection offered to safe deposit box renters there is no longer necessity of Temecula people going out of town for safe deposit protection.

August 6, 1920

James E. Crew is about through harvesting his potato crop at the Pauba Ranch. Two trucks are working overtime hauling the potatoes to the station. For the past few years Mr. Crew has been engaged in the potato planting at the Pauba. This is the first time that Mr. Crew has realized such a good crop, 150 sacks to the acre and very fine potatoes too.

We are going to have some real good times for three days and nights beginning the 20th of August. It will be a genuine western fiesta. There will be all kinds of sports, something doing every minute and you want to come over to see the big stunts that will be pulled off by the Pauba Ranch cowboys. They are the real bunch and there will be dances in the afternoon and all night. If you were never to one of these good old times, now is the chance. Good music by a San Diego colored jazz band. It can't be beat. Remember the dates August 20, 21, and 22.

George A. Burnham and family returned home last Sunday after spending their annual vacation at different places of interest.

Grand Fiesta at Temecula

Annual Event Begins Today and Continues Over Sunday. Interesting Features.

Beginning today, Temecula will stage her annual grand Fiesta, extending over Friday, Saturday and Sunday and drawing crowds from all points in this section of the country.

The program includes all sorts of races, from horse races to potato and fat men's races. There will be tugs of war and bronco busting with substantial prizes offered for each.

At noon every day there will be lunch and every evening all night jiney dances in the open-air dance hall with the Harrison Orchestra furnishing lively jazz music.

These Fiestas, which Temecula has been staging for the past several years, have become famous over this section of the south and draw large crowds who are well pleased with the entertainment afforded them.

The wild west features, the quaint little town itself and its notoriety as the scene of the massacre of Indians described in Helen H. Jackson's Ramona, the little old Indian burying ground where Allasandro's people are supposed to rest, all give it an added charm.

Many Elsinore people have heretofore attended and will not doubt do so again this year.

Our Temecula Trip

The writer last week made his first visit to Temecula

. Temecula's greatest assets are her immense backcountry, which is devoted to agriculture and stock raising. The amount of shipping from that station is simply surprising, considering the size of the town.

The owners of the Vail Ranch have made plans for and will undoubtedly soon start the construction of an immense dam, which, is said will be the largest in Southern California, across what is called Nigger Canyon and the Santa Margarita River. This will store the waters of the river as well s the storm waters and will be sufficient to irrigate the entire valley. Work was to have begun last spring, but owing to the high cost of labor was postponed.

It is also reported that the ranch will be subdivided and sold in small tracts.

The completion of this project will insure for Temecula's steady, healthful growth and her citizens are anxiously looking forward to the time when construction work will be started.

Among the citizens we met were Greenfield, cashier of the First National Bank, Albert F. Nienke, proprietor of the Temecula Valley Lumber Co., and Vance B. Sands, the good natured agent at the Santa Fe station. We say good-natured advisedly otherwise he could not hold the position.

Mr. Nienke is a good Temecula booster and is quite optimistic over the bright prospects for the future. Notwithstanding the soaring prices of everything in his line, his business has exceeded his expectations.

We enjoyed a pleasant visit with Engineer Nichols during the evening, exchanging San Bernardino reminiscences. His run is from San Bernardino to Temecula, changing, however, the sun's program of "slipping back in the night time," he remains there till morning.

We hope to have the opportunity of meeting more of Temecula's citizens in the near future.

Temecula's Big Fiesta

All kinds of races are pulled off-Big crowds attend-All night dance popular

By Mrs. Vance B. Sands

Temecula's most successful (annual?) fiesta came to a close Sunday night, after having three days of wonderful cowboy sports, including horse races, potato races, novelty races, bronco busting, etc.

The main event, which was a 500-yard free-for-all horse race, attracted the attention of all the racehorse owners. Fine racehorses were brought here and entered in the big race, but were beaten by a local horse owned by James Freeman.

The potato race was one of the most attractive races and everybody came out to see it. This is played by four good riders mounted on their horses, each one having a long stick with a sharp point. In the center of the field a small box is sunk in the ground and at least 12 potatoes placed in it these must be picked up from the box on the point of the stick and taken to their goal where they will meet with the resistance of the opposing guard, if they succeed in placing the potato in their goal it counts one point, the side getting the most points winning the race. This race was won by Carl Swanguen.

The relay race was very exciting. Four good riders started as fast as they could go to a 200-yard goal, exchanged riders and back again to the starting point, exchanged riders again and then came back to the finish. Jack McCoy won this race.

Then came the wild horse race, which took the crowd. Harry Kalk (Kolb?), a young Temecula boy volunteered to ride a wild horse that never had a blanket on its back. He decorated up with a pair of goatskin chaps; a pair of high-heeled boots and a pair of silver plated spurs and said, "Bring on your horse." The saddle and blanket was put on the horse and Harry mounted. One hundred yards was his goal and this was some long race. It was for Harry, because just as he crossed the line his horse piled him on his head. Harry got up out of the soft dirt, brushed himself and was awarded the prize and cheers from the crowd.

Bronco riding was next and some class riding was done. Three wild horses were saddled and then who is going to ride them? "Fearless" Billy Goodman, who always says, "I am not afraid of any horse," "Poison" Chaqua, who always says, "get away and let me get on," and reckless Harry Kalb, (Kolb?) who always says "can't no more than get my neck broke," decorated themselves with high-heeled boots, chaps and spurs and came out and said "we will ride them," and the show started. Some real bucking for a short while, but the boys stuck to their saddles and won the purses.

The dancing in the evenings in the open-air dance hall was well attended. Everyone that heard the colored jazz orchestra play had to come in and dance. Sunday at midnight the fiesta came to a close when the "Home Sweet Home" dance was played. Everyone grabbed his or her hats and coats and starting out, saying, "my, didn't we have a good time, and wasn't that music simply swell?" They cranked their flivvers and started in different directions to their respective homes well pleased.
